AAs/RAs/DAAs/DRAs:

(b) (6)

This afternoon (Monday, Sept 23) there are TWO related calls.

1. Under a separate invitation, Mathy Stanislaus will be leading a call at 5:30 on contingency planning for Superfund for RAs plus senior staff involved in Superfund.
2. The second call starts at 6:00 with the Administrator, Deputy Administrator, and COS.

1-(b) (6)

CODE (b) (6)

++++
++++

AGENDA for 6:00 call:

- Discuss coordinated/consistent determinations for excepted personnel
- Walk thru the most recent schedule for possible shutdown, in the event of a lapse in appropriation. (The Agency's plans must be submitted to OMB by Wednesday, and will be available publicly on Friday.
- Discuss communications with employees

Prior to the 6:00 pm call, please review your current list of excepted personnel. Primary examples of excepted activities include providing national security, and "services necessary to respond to emergencies involving safety of human life or the protection of property, where the threat to human life of property is imminent..."

We must assure that our decisions are made consistently across the agency. (Note, some of the particular decisions related to Superfund are being discussed on the 5:30 call).

ATTACHMENT: DRAFT Estimated Excepted/Exempted Personnel chart

Contact: Khanna Johnston (202 450 7988). You may call Craig Hooks (202 566 6372); John Showman (202 564 5341), or John Reeder (202 564 6082) if you wish to discuss any issues related to the contingency plan prior to the call.

Ms. Porterfield,

As discussed, Mr. McGinn is requesting office calls with Administrator McCarthy and the Deputy Administrator Perciasepe. Intent would be meet-n-greet and possibly discuss pertinent topics; such as Environmental Cleanup and Clean Air & Water Acts. The office calls can be combined or separate, whichever is most convenient.

Mr. McGinn has some availability this Friday (11OCT) from 1100- 1430 and then again next Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday.

Thank you.

Very Respectfully,

Subject: our CEO wants to call the Administrator today

Brian,

Wonder if you could help us get on the Administrator's schedule for a very short 5 minute call today with our CEO Larry Schweiger? Larry wants to call the Administrator emphasize the importance of a call we and others are trying to arrange with major foundations that fund water resource issues. I believe she may already have spoken to Margie Alt at Environment America but Larry would like to have a quick word about it as well given the importance of having the Administrator participate. He could also say a quick word about our efforts mobilizing for the upcoming listening sessions.

Would you might checking in with the scheduling office about whether a time could be set? I am copying Jackie Hardy who is Larry's scheduler.

Thank you for your help,
Adam

Subject: A Possible Conversation

Gina,

I hope that this finds you looking forward to a day or so of relaxed time for Thanksgiving.

As you know, there is continued motion on legislation that we share an interest in. The new version has some positive edits, but it remains lacking in key areas. I have been following the developments and I have been encouraged by colleagues to talk with you about it. I did talk with Jim Jones about the draft when we met in Philadelphia last week.

It would be a pleasure to communicate, if you think it would be useful.

I am in Maine for Thanksgiving, but then back to Boston.

You could suggest a means or just call me.

Best, Ken

State joins calls for U.S. Supreme Court action on Spruce Mine case
By Shauna Johnson

CHARLESTON, W.Va. — West Virginia is one of 27 states filing a friend of the court brief with the U.S. Supreme Court for a case focused on the Environmental Protection Agency's retroactive veto of a permit for Arch Coal's Spruce Mine in Logan County.

State Attorney General Patrick Morrisey said he thinks the High Court should fully review the case because of its widespread implications. "This lawsuit is about jobs in West Virginia and elsewhere," said Morrisey.

In the brief, the states argued the EPA exceeded its authority under the Clean Water Act when, in 2011, the agency vetoed the 404 permit the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers had issued for the Spruce surface mine project back in 2007.

Arch Coal sued and, last year, a federal judge threw out the EPA's veto. However, in April of this year, the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia upheld the EPA's authority. The company is now appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Morrisey said his office had to get involved.

"We have been working collaboratively with a lot of other states and organizations in order to make a very important point before the U.S. Supreme Court. There needs to be some finality in the permit approval process," he told MetroNews of the filing.

If the EPA's seemingly unlimited veto power is upheld, Morrisey said any projects, including public works projects, that fall under the Clean Water Act could be subjected to "unending uncertainty."

"I'm going to stop at nothing to protect West Virginia jobs and it's important that we stop the EPA because they'll have a chilling effect on investment in West Virginia if they get away with this case," said
